NOTES

UK - COMMUNIST CHINA: The British have confirmed that Communist China is ready to exchange ambassadors as soon as London agrees to close its consulate on Taiwan and drops its support for making a change in Chinese representation in the UN an Important Question. London has apparently already decided to meet these conditions, but is temporarily marking time while Washington completes its current policy review of the Chinese representation in the UN. The British have agreed to withhold action for a month, but are concerned that a lengthy delay might result in additional demands from Peking.
